

Looking for an easy, one-step, no-managing-required investment approach? Look no further.

Vanguard's Target Retirement Funds, sometimes called life-cycle funds, are appropriate for individuals who want a simpler, straightforward approach to retirement investing that requires less personal involvement.

With one fund selection, you can create a diversified portfolio. Each fund has a predetermined time horizon based on your targeted time frame for entering retirement. These funds invest in a specific mix of Vanguard stock and bond index funds and inflation-protected securities that steadily become more conservative as they approach a final allocation during retirement.

Although Target Retirement Funds can simplify investment selection, all mutual fund investing is subject to risk. Diversification does not ensure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market. Target Retirement Funds are not guaranteed and may gain or lose value now and after the target date is attained.

Investment Spectrum

For those interested in creating and managing their own diversified portfolio, you need to understand risk and determine your personal risk tolerance. Investment professionals generally agree that the potential for higher returns goes hand-in-hand with higher risk. Conversely, low-risk investments are associated with lower returns.

Risk Tolerance Spectrum

Risk Tolerance Spectrum

The Risk Tolerance Spectrum demonstrates the wide spectrum of risk levels among asset classes. Lower-risk investments have averaged modest long-term historical returns. Higher-risk investments, such as large company, small company, and foreign stocks, have averaged higher returns historically but with more volatility or fluctuation in value.

One of the first steps in developing an investment plan is to determine which is more important: return stability or long-term investment performance.
